By Becky Barnes, Editor

Republican Steve West claimed the 27th Senatorial District seat in a special election Tuesday.

In the eight counties that make up the 27th District, Caudill claimed only two counties -- Mason, 1,291 to 647, and Rowan, 951 to 821.

West topped the leader board in the remaining counties garnering 5,355 votes to Caudill's 4,489.

In Harrison County, West nearly doubled the votes claimed by Caudill. West pulled in 739 votes to Caudill's 397.

West carried the remaining five counties. In Bourbon County it was West 1,067 to Caudill, 448; Lewis: West, 846, Caudill, 253; Fleming: West, 770, Caudill, 749; Nicholas, West, 338, Caudill, 285; Robertson, West, 127, Caudill, 115.

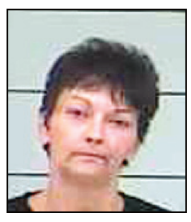
Shell robbery suspect arrested

By Becky Barnes, Editor

A Cynthiana woman was arrested within minutes of a 2:20 a.m. robbery at Shell Apple Market on Tuesday.

Cynthiana Police were dispatched to the Pleasant Street Shell, which is across the street from the 911 Center, after a woman had entered the store and indicated that she had a gun.



Cynthiana Ptl. John Bright said Susan Wornall, 49, walked into the store and walked around until everyone left except the clerk. Then she placed a scarf around her face and put on sunglasses.

She approached the counter and pointed from her pocket implying that she had a weapon, he said.

Bright said he and Ptl. Mike Kiskaden were advised that the suspect was running toward Main Street.

Kiskaden located Wornall on Keyhoe Alley near the Presbyterian Church parking lot.

Bright said she was arrested and the undisclosed amount of cash was recovered.

He said although the gun was implied, police have not located a gun in or around the path she took.

Wornall was charged with first degree robbery and first degree burglary.

As of press time, she remained in the Bourbon County Detention Center under a $25,000.

Retired educator says not guilty of sex charges

By Becky Barnes, Editor

William Hyatt, who taught school in Harrison County in the 90s, entered a not guilty plea to each of four counts of first degree sexual abuse with a victim under 12 years old.

In Tuesday's Harrison Circuit Court proceedings, Hyatt waived formal arraignment and entered his pleas.

Judge Jay Delaney set the final pretrial for May 5 with a jury trial scheduled for May 28 and 29.

Hyatt spent the night in jail last Wednesday, Feb. 25, after additional charges were issued from Fayette County.

Hyatt, 57, was indicted Tuesday, Feb. 24, on two counts of first degree sodomy with a victim under 12 years old and one count of first degree sexual abuse with a victim under 12 years old, according to Ray Larson, Fayette County Commonwealth's Attorney.

He was arrested by Kentucky State Police on Wednesday, Feb. 25, and released on a $22,500 cash bond on Thursday.

Hyatt was indicted in Harrison County on Feb. 3 on four counts of first degree sexual abuse, victim under 12.

The Harrison and Fayette charges occurred during the same time period, 1979-1981, according to Kentucky State Police Det. Luke Vanhoose.

During the period from which the charges stem, Hyatt worked as a volunteer with the Big Brothers and Big Sisters of the Bluegrass.

A release from the organization stated: "We are angered and deeply saddened to learn of this investigation surrounding an individual who was reportedly affiliated with our organization as a volunteer 34 years ago."

The charges are the result of an investigation by the Kentucky State Police.

Hyatt was a teacher in the Harrison County school system from 1992-1998. He also worked as a counselor in Mason and Bracken counties.

Malnourished horses seized, owner flees

Photo submitted

One of the horses found starving and without shelter in a fenced-off field on Hendricks Lane.

By Josh Shepherd, News writer

A Harrison County woman apparently fled the state rather than face 16 counts of animal cruelty charges when law enforcement discovered and seized a dozen malnourished horses on a Hendricks Lane farm lot last week.

Harrison County Deputy Sheriff Nathan Gasser filed the animal cruelty charges against Janet Arvola, 49, who is the apparent owner of the animals living on a small fenced off field near Hendricks Lane.

The field, which the deputy estimated to be about two acres, was occupied by eight miniature horses, three full-size horses, a donkey and some cats, Gasser reported.

In recent weeks, the sheriff's department has received several complaints from local residents of animals on the road at that location.

On Monday, Feb. 2, a complaint was received that escaped livestock caused damage to a neighbor's Ford truck.

On Wednesday, Feb. 25, Gasser responded to another complaint that four horses from the lot were again in the road. This time, Gasser and Harrison County Animal warden Allen Fryman spotted the horses.

Farming

Livestock Indemnity Program information

By Gary Carter, County extension agent for agriculture

The weather we have faced this past month had an impact on everyone in the state of Kentucky. Many farmers throughout our region of the U.S. were in the middle of calving and faced extreme measures to keep their cattle safe and see them through the worst conditions we have experienced in several years. Many farmers are familiar with the 2014 Farm Bill programs for grain crops and have been working to update information and select a program that best fits their farm.

The 2014 Farm Bill also authorized the Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP) to assist livestock producers for livestock deaths in excess of normal mortality caused by adverse weather. Attacks by animals reintroduced into the wild by the federal government or protected by federal law, including wolves and avian predators are also covered. LIP payments are equal to 75 percent of the market value of the applicable livestock on the day before the date of death of the livestock as determined by the Secretary.

To be eligible for LIP, a livestock producer must have legally owned the eligible livestock on the day the livestock died. The livestock must have died as a direct result of an eligible adverse weather event occurring, no later than 60 calendar days from the ending date of the applicable adverse weather event. Livestock must have been maintained for commercial use as part of a farming operation on the day they died and. Excluded livestock includes wild free roaming animals and pets or animals used for recreational purposes, such as hunting, roping or for show.

Producers may apply to receive LIP benefits at local FSA offices. Submit a notice of loss and an application for payment to the local FSA office maintains their farm records. To be eligible, the notice of loss must be submitted within 30 calendar days of when the loss of livestock is apparent to the producer. The producer must include a copy of the grower contract if he/she is a contract grower and any other supporting documents required for determining eligibility. Supporting documents must show evidence of loss, current physical location of livestock in inventory and location of the livestock at the time of death.

Livestock owners should record all information of livestock death losses due to bad weather and attacks by animals reintroduced into the wild by the federal government or protected by federal law. Documentation of the number and kind of livestock that have died can include photographs or video records to document the loss, dated if possible, Purchase records, veterinarian records, production records, bank or other loan documents, written contracts, records assembled for tax purposes and private insurance information. The quantity and kind of livestock that died as a direct result of the eligible event may be documented by rendering truck receipts or certificates and production records as well.

For more information on this program please contact your local FSA office. Farm record and calving pocket record books are available at the Harrison County Extension Office.

One-time deadline extension offered to update base acres or yield history for ARC/PLC programs

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announces that a one-time extension will be provided to producers for the new safety-net programs established by the 2014 Farm Bill, known as Agriculture Risk Coverage (ARC) and Price Loss Coverage (PLC).The final day to update yield history or reallocate base acres has been extended one additional month, from Feb. 27, 2015 until March 31, 2015. The final day for farm owners and producers to choose ARC or PLC coverage also remains March 31, 2015.

"This is an important decision for producers, because these programs provide financial protection against unexpected changes in the marketplace. Producers are working to make the best decision they can. And we're working to ensure that they've got the time, the information, and the opportunities to have those final conversations, review their data, and to visit the Farm Service Agency to make those decisions," said Vilsack.

If no changes are made to yield history or base acres by March 31, 2015, the farm's current yield and base will be used. A program choice of ARC or PLC coverage also must be made by March 31, 2015, or there will be no 2014 payments for the farm and the farm will default to PLC coverage through the 2018 crop year.

"These are complex decisions, which is why we launched a strong education and outreach campaign back in September. Now we're providing a one-time extension of an additional month so that every producer is fully prepared to enroll in this program," said Vilsack.

Nationwide, more than 2.9 million educational postcards, in English and Spanish, have been sent to producers, and over 4,100 training sessions have been conducted on the new safety-net programs.The online tools, available at www.fsa.usda.gov/arc-plc, allow producers to explore projections on how ARC or PLC coverage will affect their operation under possible future scenarios.

Covered commodities include barley, canola, large and small chickpeas, corn, crambe, flaxseed, grain sorghum, lentils, mustard seed, oats, peanuts, dry peas, rapeseed, long grain rice, medium grain rice (which includes short grain rice), safflower seed, sesame, soybeans, sunflower seed and wheat. Upland cotton is no longer a covered commodity.

To learn more, farmers can contact their local Farm Service Agency county office. To find your local office visit http://offices.usda.gov.

Tobacco meeting rescheduled

Pasture meeting planned for Monday

By Gary Carter, County extension agent for agriculture

The Harrison County Extension Office will be offering a pasture meeting on Monday, March 9 beginning at 7 p.m. The program will be conducted in the large meeting room at the Extension Office.

I am sure folks are beginning to wonder if we still have grass pastures under the snow covered fields. As the weather begins to change it is important to be prepared. We must be ready to make quick applications of soil amendments and seed before we get that quick flush of growth in spring. We will also discuss alfalfa seeding as a way to improve hay and pasture production.

Pasture development and renovation is important for Harrison County. Come take part in this informative meeting.

Livestock Handling and Care

The Harrison County Extension Office will conduct the second Livestock Handling and Care program on Thursday, March 12 beginning at 7 p.m. The program will be held at the Extension Office.

This program is designed to refresh producers on proper techniques in handing livestock. At the conclusion we will also offer updates for BQA. At the completion of this program producers will be awarded a farm sign showing that their production unit handles livestock properly and humanely.

If you didn't complete this program in December of 2014 plan to attend this meeting.

Harrison County grand jury issues five indictments Tuesday

By Becky Barnes, Editor

A Harrison County grand jury met Tuesday, March 3, returning five indictments against four individuals.

Tonya Applegate, 32, and Jonathan Ecklar, 47, were named as co-defendants in an Oct. 10 assault of Antonio Gonzales.

According to the indictments against Applegate, she is alleged to have "intentionally caused physical injury to Gonzales by means of a deadly weapon."

She is charged with first degree assault, first degree wanton endangerment, second degree persistent felony offender (two counts) and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Her bond is $45,000 for the two indictments.

Ecklar faces a charge of tampering with physical evidence.

According to the indictment, Ecklar tampered with evidence when "believing that an official proceeding might be instituted, he destroyed, mutilated, concealed, removed or altered evidence."

His bond is $2,500.

Abby Lynn Hicks, 33, faces a three-count indictment on charges stemming from last fall.

According to the indictment, Hicks is accused of two counts of second degree burglary, theft by unlawful taking ($10,000 or more but less than $1 million) and second degree persistent felony offender.

Hicks allegedly entered the home of Bob, Cathy and Katie Himes on two occasions, Sept. 18 and Oct. 28. She allegedly removed property that belonged to the family between Sept. 1 and Nov. 20. That property had a value of more than $10,000.

Her bond is set at $14,000.

Jack Roberts, 40, is charged with flagrant non-support of his minor child.

According to the indictment, Roberts has arrears of $1,000 or more.

His bond is $2,500.

Cedarbrook homeowners may face condemnation of their property

By Josh Shepherd, News writer

Property owners and residents of Cedarbrook are facing the very real possibility of their homes being legally condemned by the state health department because no one is stepping forward to manage their sewer system.

In sworn testimony before the Kentucky Public Service Commission Tuesday morning, the chair of the Harrison County Sanitation District stated that the organization is not financially ready or willing to assume operation of the Cedarbrook sewer system by the end of March.

At the same official meeting, Ron Osborne, CEO of the R.A. Williams Company whose sole remaining business is the Cedarbrook Wastewater Treatment Plant, testified that his company will likely declare bankruptcy on April 1 if no organization steps forward to take receivership of the sewer plant.

Should that happen, PSA staff members stated that every household in the Cedarbrook neighborhood could be legally condemned by the health department.

"We are in the process of winding down our management operations," Osborne testified. February sewer bills were mailed to all Cedarbrook residents with a statement that no one should pay their March bill.

Later in his testimony, Osborne appeared to back off from a hard stance on the issue, saying that residents were advised not to pay their bills in advance until matters over who will manage the plant gets settled.

Sanitation district chair Scott McCauley, subpoenaed by the PSC to give sworn testimony before the commissioners, stated plainly that the sanitation district would not come to the rescue in that time frame.

The sanitation district is requesting $2 million in grants through the Kentucky Infrastructure Authority (KIA) and through a Community Development Block Grant which is only now being prepared by the Bluegrass Area Development District.

Furthermore, McCauley testified that the KIA grant is targeting the package treatment plants serving Northside Elementary School and the residents of Northside trailer park.

In McCauley's testimony, it seems that the Northside project was going to be a priority project if KIA elects to award the grant to the district.

A third element to the sanitation district's strategy is a bill introduced by state Rep. Tom McKee. The bill would allow the district to repay the grant in 30 years rather than in 20 years, which is the current law.

The bill, McCauley said, has been passed in the state House of Representatives and is in Senate committee.

However, all these factors must be in place for the sanitation district to take steps to manage Cedarbrook.

Osborne said that, as a private investment, managing the Cedarbrook plant has proven to be a bad investment with consistent losses. Currently, Osborne's construction company, Bex Construction, has been underwriting Cedarbrook's losses.

He is anxious to be rid of the failed investment.

However, it is not his intent to cause residents of Cedarbrook to lose their homes over this situation.

"I understand that there are many elderly residents at Cedarbrook on fixed incomes," Osborne said. In fact, he was aware the that the entire residential neighborhood consists largely of low income households.

It is for this reason that Cedarbrook has stopped trying to seek higher monthly rates for sewer service.

"The residents can't afford for it to get any higher," he said.

But he was also clear that his company was not prepared to continue losing money on a bad private investment.

At the conclusion of the meeting, PSC Commissioners deferred making a decision pending a review of the testimony, but that a final decision will come soon.

In the meanwhile, solutions to this seemingly intractable situation are being sought before the end of March.

Welding shop moves ahead with approval for architect, advertise for bids

By Josh Shepherd, News writer

The job of bringing the new welding shop into reality has fallen, finally, upon the shoulders of the Harrison County School system.

At its regular February meeting, the school board approved the hiring of an architect to design the welding shop space and gave permission to advertise for bids on the project.

The welding shop at the Harrison County Area Technology Center (ATC) is the result of a combined effort from the school system, Harrison County and Cynthiana governments, the Economic Development Authority, and the Licking Valley Campus of Maysville Community and Technical College.

Nearly a half-million dollars were raised to finance the project and now the actual process of building it will soon take place.

The school board also approved advertising for bids on an ATC storage building that will be part of the welding shop project.

The architect for the project will be Robert Ehmet Hayes and Associates.

In other business, the school board:

•Approved a change in the school calendar. Students will attend school on March 20, which had been reserved as a day off for KEA.

•Accepted the bid from Josh Curtis for mowing services for Harrison County Schools. Curtis was the lowest bidder at $150 per cut for Lebus Field and $600 per cut for Eastside, Westside and Northside Elementary Schools.

School facilities director Robert Switzer noted that the bid prices for mowing the elementary school lawns last year rose nearly 100 percent. The low bid last year was about $384 per cut, he said. He had no explanation for the dramatic rise in bids, but that Curtis was still the lowest bidder among his five competitors.

• Approved advertising for bids for tires, fuel, plumbing services and hay mowing at the school farm.

•Approved overnight trips for ATC students and a field trip of Eastside fifth grade students.

KSP arrest Cynthiana man on charges from Feb. 9 carjacking

By Josh Shepherd, News writer

Kentucky State Police in Hazard arrested a Harrison County man last week on charges connected to an alleged carjacking that occurred earlier this month.

Henry Hogg, 45, of South Church Street was arrested on the more serious charges after appearing in Breathitt County District Court for a misdemeanor charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Det. Paul Olin of the Harrison County Sheriff's Office had sworn out felony arrest warrants for Hogg on charges of fourth degree assault and first degree robbery stemming from an incident that occurred on Monday, Feb. 9.

Hogg is alleged to have threatened his girlfriend, Kathy Dawson, at knife point during an altercation on U.S. 27 North.

According to Olin's report, Hogg injured Dawson in the fight, forced her out of her vehicle at knife-point then stole the car and fled to Breathitt County.

During his flight, Hogg called Harrison E-911 stating he was driving to Jackson, Kentucky, to commit suicide.

Hogg was arrested that evening by state troopers in Breathitt County on a misdemeanor charge and had been released on bond before felony arrest warrants could be issued, Olin said.

Last Wednesday, Feb. 25, however, state police arrested Hogg again on the outstanding felony warrants from Harrison County.

He was transported to Bourbon County Detention Center where he remains on $25,000 bond.

Horses

the field where they belonged, the deputy observed that the horses were in poor physical condition.

A survey of the conditions at the open field revealed that there was very little or no food or water being provided to any of the horses.

There was also no shelter on the grounds to protect the animals from severe weather conditions, he added.

Two horses needed immediate care, Gasser said. Others were clearly malnourished and in poor physical condition.

After swearing out charges of animal cruelty against Arvola, Fryman and Gasser seized the horses.

A representative of the Harrison County Veterinary Clinic determined that one of the horses was in need of immediate medical care.

Arrangements were made for all the animals to be temporarily fostered in Harrison County until permanent owners could come forward to provide appropriate care, Gasser said.

When attempting to serve misdemeanor charges against Arvola, Gasser was informed that she had vacated the place where she had been living in Harrison County.

It is believed that she fled the state, Gasser said.

You ever get the sense that you've seen this all before?

Deja-Vu, again and again

Becky Barnes
Editor

At this writing, we are still in the forecast stage of the winter that just won't end.

I haven't even thanked our road crews for making a safe passage for my travels from the first measurable snow. Now we have a second wave of Snowmageddon.

Because I live along U.S. 27, a priority one road, my path gets cleared first. So while my driveway is always a challenge, at least I can get to it without much problem.

Once I get to Cynthiana, I travel Church Street to Bridge and then up the hill to Webster.

I have to say that while some of the streets remained snow-covered for a few days, getting around in town was not bad.

It's all about taking your time.

While my car is all-wheel drive, I still take it easy on the gas pedal. When traffic gets behind me, I try to get over far enough that others can go around me.

The men who keep our roads clear are a special breed. Not everyone could or would be willing to get out of a nice warm bed to scrape roads. (I say warm bed because snows rarely happen during the daylight hours).

With this last snow, there simply was nowhere for the snow to go.

Piles of once-white-but-soon-gray snow were left in the wake of a scraper blade.

On county and state roads, the snow arcs from the front of a snow plow and lands in fields. However, in town, it just gets left along the sides of the streets.

When there is accumulations like we've just experienced, everyone has to stop and be thankful for what these men were able to accomplish. There were eight, nine, even 10 inches of snow to be moved. And they moved it as expediently as possible.

I'm certain there were isolated instances where it seemed to take longer to get some of the less-traveled roads clear. Keep in mind how much snow that was and when the last time we saw that much of the hateful, white stuff.

Kevin Florence, state road supervisor for Harrison County, James McCarty, county road supervisor, and Gary Royalty for the city, and all their crews have had an eventful February and early March.

I commend them all for the jobs they do. They are in a thankless position, but deserve our thanks nonetheless.

I've heard more than one person proclaim that God has a way of slowing things down when he thinks we are out of control.

Amen.

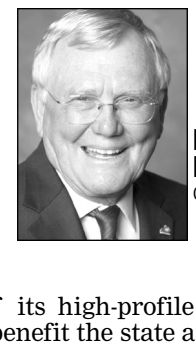
I'm just grateful this second snow storm is coming on a Thursday when I have no imminent deadline to meet.

Thank you gentlemen and may you have safe travels over the hundreds of miles of roads you have to maintain.

In the meantime, the rest of us need to take a lesson in patience.

Be safe my friends.

Shoring up the foundation for state retirement



Rep. Tom McKee
Guest Columnist

FRANKFORT – As the number of remaining days in a legislative session goes down, the number of hours spent debating and voting on bills inevitably goes up.

That was certainly the case last week, as the Kentucky House of Representatives sent the Senate the remainder of its high-profile bills plus many others that would benefit the state as well.

The most far-reaching of those would go a long way toward helping the Kentucky Teachers' Retirement System (KTRS) address its long-term liability. While this is not a crisis at the moment – a point I want to emphasize – it is also important that we not wait to address this issue. If we do nothing, both KTRS and ultimately the state will face crushing budgetary costs in the 2020s and 2030s.

Over the last dozen years, the General Assembly has been working to address the problems facing this retirement system and the one for state and local government employees. Two years ago, we adopted a major course of action that, over time, will put the system for state and local government employees on a much stronger foundation.

This year's House Bill 4 attempts to accomplish that same goal for teachers. It is based on recommendations KTRS made late last year, and it proposes issuing more than $3 billion in bonds – whose interest rates are near historic lows – to take advantage of the much greater returns KTRS has seen in its investments over the last two decades.

I am sensitive to worries about the state taking on more debt, but the liability is also a cost that cannot be ignored.

What makes this even more pressing is that teachers depend entirely on their retirement, since they do not pay into – or receive – Social Security.

As we wait to see how this may be resolved, the House approved a wide range of other bills last week that were a mix of new and familiar ideas.

Two that have been through our chamber before are rooted in the criminal justice system while the third offers an innovative way to pay for large projects like billion-dollar bridges and highways that otherwise might be difficult for the state to build.

Under House Bill 60, the House proposes greater use of ignition-interlock systems, which are essentially a self-administered Breathalyzer test for those convicted of DUI and who have been granted a hardship license by a judge. These tests help ensure the drivers do not drive drunk again, and the bill complements that by also requiring the drivers to be enrolled in a substance abuse treatment program.

House Bill 40, meanwhile, would go a long way toward helping many of the nearly 175,000 Kentuckians who have a Class "D" felony on their record and are unable to find work or even volunteer in their child's school.

Currently, those with lesser criminal charges can petition the court to have their record expunged five or more years after they have finished their punishment; this legislation would add to that list most Class "D" felonies, which represent the lowest of the four felony levels. The bill's exclusions include sex offenses and crimes against children and the elderly and disabled.

One of the more prominent bills to come before the House last week was new to our chamber. House Bill 152, known widely as the "AT&T" bill, modernizes state regulations affecting the telecommunications industry. It allows these companies to focus more on next-generation telephone services like cell phones and internet-based calling.

This would mainly affect more urban and suburban areas. Rural customers would be able to maintain their landline service, although the companies would not be required to extend landlines further. Rural customers who do switch to newer technology would also have two months to switch back if they are not happy.

On a more personal note, I am pleased that several of my bills cleared the House last week. House Bill 171 would increase transparency of our air-ambulance services, so that our citizens have a better idea of what costs they might face themselves if they are ever air-lifted. Some people are surprised to learn that they owe thousands of dollars even if they have health insurance.

House Bill 170 would better enforce the law that is supposed to keep vehicles from parking for extended periods on state-maintained highways, shoulders and ramps. This bill limits that to 15 minutes, except in common sense cases like a flat tire or an emergency.

This legislation is named in honor of Todd McCall, who lost his life after his vehicle ran into the back of a parked truck on an on-ramp in 2013. Both his father and uncle, Michael and Patrick McCall of Harrison County, were there in the House chamber to see this bill pass.

My third piece of legislation – House Bill 339 – would have Kentucky join the list of states that celebrate the National Day of the Cowboy. If this passes, it will be recognized on the fourth Saturday of each July.

This week marks the last full one of this year's legislative session, so the time to let me know your thoughts or concerns about the bills before us is nearing the end. If you would like to contact me, my address is Room 324E, Capitol Annex, 702 Capitol Avenue, Frankfort, KY 40601; or you can email me at Tom.McKee@lrc.ky.gov.

To leave a message for me or for any legislator by phone, please call 800-372-7181. For those with a hearing impairment, the number is 800-896-0305.

I hope to hear from you soon.

Food pantry director gives an update to the community

To the editor:

This is an update to the community on the food pantry.

I am sorry I am late in writing this but I want to thank everyone who participated in anyway in the year of 2014, it was only thru your donations, we were able to keep the doors open.

In 2014 we were able to serve 2,777 families - to a total of 9,141 people, plus on Christmas 416 families were able to have a Christmas dinner which means 3,193 people didn't go hungry. Give yourselves a pat on the back, because you made this possible.

Contributions have been down in January and February which is normal but due the cold and snowy days, we have had many calls for food since the children have been out of school.

We thank each of you for what you have done and I brag on this community for the giving spirit you have. The bible says we will always have the poor with us and we never know when we may need some help. Losing a partner, losing a job, an accident or an illness could put us in the position of needing a helping hand. I say it doesn't surprise me that God keeps us going, but it always amazes me the people he uses and the methods he uses. This is Gods' pantry, not mine or yours but God's. We are just stewards of the pantry and all the volunteers want to be the best stewards we can be.

We have been able to buy some fresh meats the last few months and are still able to give bread, milk and eggs.

As stated before we were able to hand out 416 Christmas boxes with a turkey. A group of 25 or 30 meet with us to make up these boxes and this was a wonderful blessing. Also with the help of some wonderful people, gave out toys to parents for their children who otherwise may not have any Santa Claus. I am sending out a request if anyone is downsizing or have some good used toys, stuffed animals, puzzles or games you would like to do something with, bring them to the food pantry. We have storage room and if any needs batteries we will replace them for Toys for Christmas 2015.

Again, thanks each of you for all you do, have done, and will continue to do. May God bless each of you. If you have any questions about the running of the pantry, please feel free to call or come by.

Remember, when we work together, great things can be accomplished.

Yours in Christ,
Margaret Watson

Homebound hospice patients reached during winter storms

To the editor:

Snow, ice, freezing rain and subzero temperatures were a challenge to much of Kentucky last week. I was touched by the response from Hospice of the Bluegrass staff and our community as so many went to great lengths to ensure homebound hospice patients continued to receive medical and nursing care despite the severe weather.

A HUGE thank you needs to be given to more than can be named for their extraordinary efforts. It is heartwarming to see so many committed to helping us achieve our mission. Our supporters helped by clearing cars, offering four wheel drive vehicles and transporting staff to patient homes and our care centers. We appreciate all of you and want you to know that your support is invaluable to our mission.

Sincerely,
Liz Fowler

Harrison County students seek support through ag tag donations

By Josh Shepherd, News writer

Harrison County FFA students are asking farmers to say "yes" when asked to add $10 to the fee on their farm tag license this year. It's an easy and quick way to directly support local FFA and 4-H educational programs and projects, said Gracie Furnish, FFA vice president.

Since March is traditionally the time local farmers renew the annual farm tags on their vehicles, FFA students are launching a month-long campaign to remind farmers to add a bit to their renewal.

The FFA is also receiving support from the Harrison County Clerk's Office for this campaign.

It won't be a hard sell, Furnish said. When farmers come in to renew, they will be asked if they would consider adding $10 to support these local programs.

Harrison County farmers recognize the value of the FFA and are often very good about being willing to contribute, she said. But there was a slight dip in contributions last year and it might be because people don't realize that the additional fee stays in Harrison County.

"The optional donation made at the clerk's office is split evenly to support FFA, 4-H and Kentucky Proud programs in our community only," Furnish said.

As both an officer in the FFA this year and as a member of 4-H Teen Council, Furnish participates in a number of the community service programs and the education programs that this fund helps support.

Harrison County Clerk Linda Furnish with FFA and 4-H students encourage farmers and residents to give a little more in their license renewals to support these programs.

Harrison County Clerk Linda Furnish was glad to throw in her support of the program. As a member of Harrison County's extensive population of farm families, her children have been FFA members and now her grandchildren are involved as well.

She also said that support is not limited to just farmers renewing their farm tags.

"Anyone can contribute to the program at any time of the year and they'll also earn a tax deduction," Linda Furnish said.

There are only a handful of ways that the FFA raises funds. They sponsor their own fundraisers throughout the year.

The school agriculture department and the school farm benefits from the McDowell Trust, but those large scale donations are often used up making major purchases of farm equipment and maintenance of the school farm.

The money raised from the farm ag tags campaign will allow students in the FFA and 4-H to continue their wide range of educational and community service programs, she said.

A portion also goes to support individuals in the Kentucky Proud program as well, Furnish said.

For those who wish to participate in Harrison County's proud tradition of excellence in agriculture education and investing in the next generation of local farmers, the Harrison County FFA encourages everyone to say yes and give just a little more, she said.

Having More Retirement Accounts is Not the Same as Having More Money.

When it comes to the number of retirement accounts you have, the saying "more is better" is not necessarily true. In fact, if you hold multiple accounts with various brokers, it can be difficult to keep track of your investments and to see if you're properly diversified.* At the very least, multiple accounts usually mean multiple fees.

Bringing your accounts to Edward Jones could help solve all that. Plus, one statement can make it easier to see if you're moving toward your goals.

*Diversification does not guarantee a profit or protect against loss.

Super Sunday weekend reaches over 100 young people

The previously postponed Super Sunday events in Cynthiana were held last weekend.

Super Sunday started as an effort to bring greater participation for college attainment in Kentucky's diverse population.

In order to reach more young people, a committee was formed with members from three local churches as leaders.

The committee suggested that there be a dual purpose for the event and to spread the activities over a weekend.

The two themes involved emphasis on college in Cynthiana and a strong effort to help young people understand the dangers of the drug problem.

On Friday night, the opening event was held at Macedonia Baptist Church. They hosted a pizza party with the help of Snappy Pizza.

Following the gathering, the group with the addition of several adults, attended a showing of "Selma." The Rohs Theatre management scheduled the movie especially for this event. There were 47 in attendance at the pizza party and movie.

On Sunday morning, a breakfast was held at St. James church along with a college fair to give young people material and one-on-one assistance concerning college opportunities.

Following the breakfast, the group moved to the church sanctuary for morning worship.

There were 99 people in attendance. The guest speaker was Shane Fowler, a Harrison County High School graduate who is finishing his studies at U.K.

He talked about the importance of making plans to go to college, getting good grades and reaching for important goals in life.

He stressed how important it is to be willing to work hard for the things in life that are important to you.

He asked, "Which of these two things are true for you: Are you afraid to succeed or are you afraid to fail?"

Each of the three ministers stressed the importance of taking advantage of the college opportunity in Cynthiana, especially the dual credit classes for high school students.

The members of the committee who organized and worked throughout the weekend are: the Rev. Antonio Stuckey, the Rev. Kenneth Newby, the Rev. Anthony Stevenson, Billy Custard, Charles Conner, Blaine Henry, Monica Reed, Terri Harris, Bonita Watson, Alice Allen and Jonetta Fowler.

This planning group announced its intention to continue to encourage young people to stay in school and look forward to higher education.

For more information about college in Cynthiana, stop by the MCTC/Licking Valley Campus or call 859-234-8626 extension 66400.

Shane Fowler spoke before a large crowd at St. James A.M.E. Church for Super Sunday Weekend. He talked about earning a college degree and setting life goals.

The snickerdoodle gospel

GRACE NOTES

This morning when I came into work, I put on a pot of decaf, as I usually do, and sat down at my desk to read the paper.

Although I tried to keep my mind focused on community development block grants, it wandered instead to soft, chewy, cinnamon-sugary snickerdoodles. Or a huge, fluffy cinnamon roll slathered with sweet, buttery glaze.

Occasionally, people will bring in goodies and leave them on the counter in the newsroom, and being the first one in every day, I'm often greeted by these sweet leftover treats. And even though they're rarely, if ever, snickerdoodles or cinnamon rolls, I almost always sneak a taste or five of whatever's left in the box, even if it's stale.

I'm not proud of that, but what can I say? It's the truth.

On a side note: Don'tcha hate how food places now put the calorie count on their menu items? When Panera Bread opened less than two miles from my home, my sweet tooth did a happy dance at the thought of their cinnamon crunch scones and cobblestone cinnamon-apple-raisin swirl bread treats. But now that I know they're each at least 500, albeit delicious, calories, I just can't bring myself to indulge.

OK, back to this morning and my wandering thoughts of snickerdoodles.

Not seeing any on the counter, I wanted some even more. So, I scrounged up some coins from the bottom of my purse and headed for the vending machine, settling for a $1 bag of mini vanilla-flavored sandwich crème cookies, which do not in any way resemble snickerdoodles and aren't even a reasonable facsimile.

But I bought them anyway, noting that one serving is 150 calories and that the bag contains 3.5 servings.

I carefully picked out a serving size — nine mini cookies — and stuffed the rest in my desk drawer. After gobbling up the nine mini cookies that are not snickerdoodles, I ate the remaining 22.5 cookies less than 30 seconds later for a total of 525 non-yummy, non-snickerdoodly calories.

What a rip off.

But wait, there's more.

Because the cookies left me wanting, not more, but something else, I scrounged up another dollar and bought a gas station 560-calorie cinnamon roll of questionable quality. I only ate a third(ish) of it, and it still wasn't what I wanted, but in my desperate state, it was the closest thing to a snickerdoodle, although not close enough.

Not surprisingly, I felt queasy all morning.

I should have stopped at Panera on the way to work for the real thing, the thing I really wanted.

The folks at Weight Watchers say that one or two bites of the real thing, the thing you really want, are infinitely more satisfying than 100 bites of something lesser. If you try to eat anything and everything else that's not the real thing, (a) you'll end up eating too much and (b) you won't be satisfied and (c) you'll most likely eat the real thing you wanted in the first place, and you will have set yourself back in the process.

For me, it's a practical, spiritual lesson: I know I have an inborn craving for God, and I know that only God can satisfy that craving. I know that.

So, what do I do? I run to everything that's not God to make me feel secure and loved and important. I go shopping, I'm stingy with my money, I pretend I'm better than I really am, I do everything I can to control the chaos around me, I seek approval, I eat too much.

But it's all only highly processed, artificially flavored, vending machine cookies. It's not the real thing, the thing, or the One, I really want.

The psalmist wrote, "Taste and see that the LORD is good; blessed is the one who takes refuge in him" (Psalm 34:8).

I have tasted, many times. And he is good, and I am blessed when I take refuge in him.

And yet, I continue to settle for lesser things.

But because I don't want to continue settling, I dug the empty cookie bag out of my trashcan and set it on the shelf over my desk so I can see it as I work. I'm hoping that it will serve as a reminder of what happens when I turn to a substitute for the real thing.

Maybe I'll remember my queasy stomach, the dissatisfaction of an imposter and the disappointment I feel in failing yet again. Maybe I'll remember the longing for something more, something else, something other, something better — something best — and choose to not choose the lesser thing.

Oh, I hope so!

Cynthiana Suds to celebrate grand opening next Tuesday

By Josh Shepherd, News writer

New business continues to find a home in the historic district of Cynthiana. On Tuesday, March 10, from 12 - 1 p.m., Terry and Betsy Herrington invite the community to the grand opening of their newest local business: Cynthiana Suds.

The new state-of-the-art, coin-operated laundromat is located in the former Dairy Barn building at 302 N. Main St. near the entrance to Joe B. Hall bridge.

In addition to special prize drawings and refreshments, Herrington invites people to view the Maytag company's most technologically advanced laundry system.

"Betsy and I spent a lot of time learning about laundry systems before deciding that was what we wanted to do with the building. Before then, I could not have told you a thing about cleaning clothes," Herrington joked about the new investment.

Even now, he's not entirely sure he can tell visitors everything about the new super-sized washers and industrial dryers at the store. That's why representatives from Maytag will also be at the grand opening to talk about the machines.

"We have 30-, 40- and 65- pound washing machines and dryers to handle those loads. I don't know much, but I do know that they should be able to wash and dry a load of laundry in a little less than an hour," Herrington said.

Not only that, but the big machines are also designed to handle king-sized comforters, blankets and big towels.

"Those machines will come in handy when we finally get out of this winter blast," Herrington said.

In addition to the investment in machines, Herrington also put money into customer amenities, such as high speed wi-fi and flat screen televisions, and also into the appearance of the building on Main Street.

"When we bought this building in 2013, it needed a new roof, electrical wiring and plumbing," Herrington said. "But we also put money into making the building look new again."

The Herringtons grew up in Cynthiana and loved the life that their hometown has given them.

They are also encouraged by all the new investments being made in the oldest section of town.

"Whatever we did with this building, we wanted to make sure that it wasn't an eyesore or a detraction to neighbors," he said.

He hopes the face lift has added some value to the corner street where the laundry is located and to downtown Cynthiana as well.

The Herringtons have always been about investing and refreshing the looks of their businesses. Whether it's the LeBus building with its storage units or the Cynthiana Cash store, there is always money used to give the businesses a good face lift.

Cynthiana Suds is already attracting business. In its first week, with no fanfare or advertising at all, word has already spread about its opening. And the business has been getting good use.

Herrington is optimistic that it will continue. He looks forward to welcoming local business leaders and the community to visit Cynthiana Suds and help it become yet another of the thriving new businesses coming to town.

HMH offers Caregiver affidavit form on website

In an effort to assist with informing the public in regards to the Caregiver Authorization Law, HMH will place the informational guide and affidavit form on the its website at harrisonmemhosp.com.

The law was passed in 2013 (SB 176) and it allows a relative caregiver to sign an affidavit to access key services for children in their care without the need for legal custody or guardianship. Caregivers can complete an affidavit, under penalty of perjury, stating that they are the primary caregiver of the child, and then by presenting the form, they can authorize health care treatment, educational services, and school enrollment.

The Kentucky Youth Advocates worked with an attorney from Legal Aid to create a model affidavit which is essentially a form that caregivers can completed to create their own affidavit based on what is now statute. The form can be presented when taking a child to the doctor, hospital or when enrolling the child in school.

The informational guide with instructions and the caregiver affidavit form are located on the HMH website at harrisonmemhosp.com under the tab patients and visitors and the category patient rights and safety.

For more information about the services at HMH, please visit the website.

Planning ahead, order seed

Like many gardeners this time of the year I, too, have been spending cold winter evenings by the fire with a good catalog.

The seed catalogues fill the mailbox and I barely make it up the driveway without taking a peak at what's offered for 2015.

Two years ago, I made a procrastinating mistake and waited too long to place my onion and potato order. By the time I got around to it, all of my selections were sold out for the season.

I ended up sourcing inferior onion slips and seed potato and you sure could tell when it came to harvest time. Zero on the bulbing onions and a scant few pounds of potatoes.

So, needless to say, my potato and onion orders have been placed.

And, I am reminded of my favorite source for potatoes as we continue to enjoy the cellared harvest from 2014.

Wood Prairie Farm in Maine has excellent organic seed potato quality and variety. They also carry a sampling of vegetable seed, cover crops and grains for bakers. You can call them at 1-800-829-9765 for a catalog or visit www.woodprairie.com

As for the fabulous onions, I look to Texas where Dixondale Farms has been growing onions since 1913.

In Kentuckiana, we can grow intermediate and long-day varieties (the bulbing action of onions is tied to day length) of onions including 'Sterling,' 'Highlander' and 'Candy.'

I have always had a superior crop of onions when I source from Dixondale. You can reach them at 1-877-367-1015 or at www.DixondaleFarms.com

For the kitchen garden, there are several good seed sources if you are looking for heirloom or hard-to-find seeds that you recall from gardening seasons long ago.

The Cook's Garden (800-457-9705; www.cooksgarden.com) in Londonderry, Vermont, started out offering a two-page listing of unusual salad greens over 30 years ago and today they have nearly 100 pages of vegetables for the gardener interested in taste.

In the Cook's Garden, I found some seeds for growing the now famous Kentucky bibb lettuce, hoping that the spring will be mild enough for it to do well in the garden.

I have selected varieties of spring greens, mild and tangy, and some haricot vert, the delicate thin French green bean.

I also found an heirloom Christmas pole lima bean; the delicate 'Emerite' pole bean; and 'Orient Express' cucumber to end a friend's two-year search. Finding the cucumber seeds for my gardening friend was the most fun.

Other favorite catalogs for interesting vegetable seed include Pinetree Garden Seeds (207-926-3400; or www.Superseeds.com) where you can find unusual European heirlooms like the British summer squash 'Vegetable Marrow.'

Territorial Seed Company has the best selection and description of tomatoes I have seen; and Johnny's Selected Seeds is a close second.

You can contact Territorial at 1-800-626-0866 or www.TerritorialSeed.com; and Johnny's at 1-877-564-6697 or www.Johnnyseeds.com. Remember, don't put off until tomorrow what you can do today.

Fillies Head Coach Kim Furnish takes the first strings off the nets at Robertson County High School following her team's 52-46 win in the girls' 38th District Tournament Championship.

Fillies season ends with 60-42 region loss to Scott

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

The 38th District Champion Harrison County Fillies could not match up with the Lady Eagles of Scott High Tuesday night losing 60-42 in the 10th Region quarterfinals.

The Fillies' season ends with a deceiving 10-21 record while Scott advances at 20-9.

The Fillies jumped out to a 6-1 lead to start the game but the speed and physical play of Scott soon wore Harrison County down.

By halftime, Scott led 27-15 and the Fillies were in an uphill battle.

The third period saw the Fillies cut the lead to eight points early in the quarter. However, consecutive three pointers by the Lady Eagles pushed their advantage back to 14 and Harrison County could get no closer.

The Fillies battled hard but missed free throws early hurt them. A 37-31 Scott rebound advantage gave the Lady Eagles multiple chances each trip down the floor.

Scott grabbed 16 offensive rebounds in the contest. Harrison County battled, but with five minutes left in the game, Scott led 50-25.

The Fillies cut into the lead but could get no closer than the final 18-point advantage with each team substituting for the last two minutes of the contest.

Scott High was led in scoring by Madison Meyer and Alexis Stapleton who each scored 12 points. Anna Clephane added 11 as the Lady Eagles had three players in double figures.

Senior Whitney Gray was the game's leading scorer with 13 points for the Fillies. Fellow senior Chelsea Ingram added 11, including all three of the Fillies' three pointers. Madison Philpott scored eight points and led the Fillies with seven rebounds.

Scott's Holly Kallmeyer was the game's leading rebounder with 10.

The Fillies were 3 of 13 from the foul line while Scott High was 9 of 12. Harrison County had 14 turnovers while Scott High committed 11 miscues.

After the game, Coach Kim Furnish was proud of her team.

"Many people do not realize that this group of girls that won the 38th District Championship had never won before," she said. "They did not win in middle school, freshman, junior varsity or varsity until this year. I could not be happier for them and the year that they had. We will really miss the three seniors: Kelsey Roberts, Chelsea Ingram and Whitney Gray have each accomplished things in basketball that we didn't know that they would. They are leaving some big shoes to fill."

Scott High advances to play George Rogers Clark Friday night in the second semi-final game.

Mason County and Campbell County will face off in the opener Friday at 6 p.m. All games are played in the Letcher Norton Gym in the Clark County Middle School.

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

On Saturday, the Harrison County track squad traveled back to Maysville for the final regular season indoor track meet.

The field was large due to teams wanting to prepare for the indoor state meet which will also be held at Mason County. This meet will be on Saturday, March 14.

"It was important to have this meet today," said Coach Danny Simpson. "It sharpens our veterans and gives invaluable experience to our freshmen. We didn't have our best performances but we did pretty well."

Kassidy Cook won the 55M hurdles in a fast time of :08.78. Sarah Doyle, Kearstin Tingle and Karlee Migneault also competed in the 55M hurdles.

Summer Franklin ran the 55M dash in :08.84.

Hannah Duncan threw the shot put 21 feet, 11 inches while Heather Hamilton tossed it 20 feet 9½ inches and Rachel Swinford 19 feet, 10½ inches, which were personal bests for both athletes.

The girls were 12th of the 17 teams in the competition, which was won by Rockcastle County.

The Thorobreds tied for 13th in the 18-team boys' competition.

Derek Nunnelley was third in the 55M hurdles running the race in :08.62 seconds.

Daniel Craig and Austin Harless also ran in the hurdles.

Fillies District champs with 52-46 win over Lady Devils

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

"Our defense was the key," said Coach Kim Furnish after the Fillies' thrilling win over Robertson County. "We knew Saner would hit shots; our goal was to take Mitchell out of the game by denying her drive. Maddie K and Whitney took two huge charges to set the tone and deny her the paint."

The defensive affect on the game was apparent from the outset as the Fillies slowed the Lady Devils offense to a crawl holding them to only two points in the first period.

Unfortunately, Harrison County, while getting some good looks, had trouble finding the range as well and the score ending the quarter was only 6-2 in favor of the Fillies.

Lacey Mitchell and Kaela Saner were held scoreless in the first quarter.

Both teams warmed up in the second period making half of their field goal attempts as the Fillies led 19-16 at the half.

Sophomore Taylor Reffett broke loose from her scoring slump and made several drives to the basket to score eight points in the second period. Reffett used her spin move in the middle on her drives to get past the defenders for some easy baskets.

The Fillies, with tournament MVP Madison Philpott scoring 10 points in the third period, took what appeared to be a commanding lead of seven points.

Reffett also scored five points in this period making the only three-point shot of the night for the Fillies.

Harrison County led 38-31 at the end of the period.

Similar to the regular season game, Robertson County came back in the final period.

They went to a different defense and rallied to take a 46-42 lead late in the contest.

"They went to a 2-2-1 in the fourth period that rattled us

Breds lose lead and district title as Wildcats win 73-71

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

The Harrison County Thorobreds jumped out to a 15-4 lead to start the game Friday night but failed to hold the lead as they lost the 38th District Championship to Pendleton County 73-71.

Pendleton County used a three-point-shooting barrage to overcome the Thorobreds in the hotly contested district final.

The Wildcats made good on 16 of 25 three-point attempts for the evening to keep pressure on the Thorobreds all night.

After the early lead for Harrison County, the Wildcats out scored the Breds five to two to close out the period trailing 17-9.

Sophomore Michael Antrobus scored 15 of his game-high 27 points in the second period as he led the Wildcats to cut the Harrison County lead to two at 37-35 to end the half.

Harrison County senior Brandon Case scored all nine of his points in the period to keep the Breds in front.

Pendleton County continued to shoot the ball very well from the field in the third period taking a 56-51 lead going into the final period.

In the third quarter, the Wildcats were five of six from behind the arc while the Thorobreds were making only four of 12 field goals.

Harrison County also struggled from the foul line in the period, hitting only four of eight tries.

Harrison County came out in the fourth period and worked their way back into the lead by hitting five of their first nine field goal attempts and seven of nine free throws to take a 68-61 lead with two minutes to play in the game.

However, three pointers by Antrobus and senior Hunter Lea along with some timely free throw shooting gave the Wildcats the lead at 73-71 with less than one half minute to play.

The Thorobreds fouled Lea, who missed the front end of a one-and-one with about 15 seconds left and Harrison County called a time out.

Junior Zack Pulliam shot a three pointer from the left of the key but the ball stuck between the rim and the back-

Mike's Minute

School spirit, some show it, some don't

Mike Aldridge
Sports Writer

The just-completed 38th District Tournament put on display the polar opposites of school spirit.

On one end of the pole is Pendleton County and on the other end Harrison County.

People display their emotions in very different ways and everyone is not the person who takes the school banner and runs from one end of the floor to the other or gets emotional when his/her team makes a great play.

I have never been one to yell much during a game or show great emotion for a play as I usually clap and that is about it.

But there is one thing for sure, in order to run up and down the floor with a banner or simply clap, a person has to be in attendance for the game.

Friday evening when the Thorobreds were doing battle with the Wildcats, the gym at Robertson County was nearly filled to capacity. The parking lot was beyond capacity but everyone seemed to find a place to park so that was not an issue.

In fact, Robertson County put on a good tournament and should be commended for their efforts.

I especially liked the player introductions for the championship games.

The gym was filled to near capacity with three quarters of the gym filled with Pendleton County people and one quarter with Harrison County people.

Jim Swinford and I arrived in Mt. Olivet approximately an hour and a half before game time and there were already 25 people there from Pendleton County.

There were two from Harrison County, Jim and me. Before anyone else arrived from Harrison County there were well over 120 people in the stands from Pendleton County.

Harrison County's regular fans came to the game.

That would be the parents, grandparents and other relatives of the players and coaches.

There were also a few others including the cheerleaders and the band, which both did an admirable job.

Who wasn't there were the Harrison County students.

Of course, a few students were there but Pendleton County had one whole section filled from the floor to the top with raucous students who cheered and jeered for the entire game.

Their team fed off that energy.

Their crowd also came early, which gave them the choice seats together where the noise was concentrated.

Even behind the Harrison County bench was full of Wildcat backers except for seven Harrison County people.

What has become of the "Stable"?

Again, the band and cheerleaders made an effort to rally the troops when the game was tight, but the opposition's crowd did a much better job.

This was largely due to numbers. The crowd was three-to-one in the favor of Pendleton County so the noise was proportionate to the size of the crowd.

Harrison County has two teams that have earned their way to the regional tournament and each of them deserves the support of the community.

They especially deserve the support of their fellow students. I realize that times are tough and money is tight and all of the other reasons that are given for not going to the games. But if you wanted to go you would find a way.

In my opinion, you should want to go.

Cynthiana Gems compete well in two competitions

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

The Cynthiana Gems youth cheerleading squads competed in the NCA Wildcard Classic on Feb. 21 in Louisville and again on Saturday, Feb. 28, in Lexington at Cheersport.

The Louisville competition saw both the Sapphires in the Youth Level 1 and the Amethyst in Level 2 score their highest scores for the year.

The Sapphires finished third overall only one point behind the winner and a fraction of a point behind the runner-up squad, both from Louisville.

The Amethysts were second in their class, again, just a small margin behind the Louisville winners.

The Cheersport competition at the Lexington Civic Center saw both squads post their highest scores of the year.

The Sapphires were second in Youth Level 1, one eighth of a point out of first, and the Amethysts finished fifth in Youth Level 2.

The next Gems tournament will be the Jamfest National Series in Louisville on March 21 and 22.

Members of the Sapphires are: Braxton Oliver, Moshea McCoy, Lexy Wright, Karley Furnish, Trinity Brooks, Jaime Lynn Timmons, Riley Grob, Brianna Tucker, Desiree Couve, Kamie Mullikin, Brooklyn Wood, Chloe Fitzpatrick and CeCe Boland.

The Amethysts are: Cindy Barker, Kenley Tumey, Brooklyn Garrison, Taesha Speaks, Amiyah Speaks, Kalee Tucker, Sydney Furnish, Gabby Florence, Jalyn Brooks, Reece Shirley, Briley Cline, Lainey Vaughn, Brooke Kinney, Mallory Creech, Alexis Wilson, Katlyn Fitzpatrick and McKinley Fain.

Samantha Furnish is the head coach. She is assisted by Stacey Speaks, Lauren Rosensteel and Jonathan Furnish.

board.

The possession arrow was in Harrison County's favor so again the Breds took a timeout to set up a play.

The ball came in to senior Trenton Thompson who regained his balance after being shoved out of bounds on the play.

Thompson went up for a close in shot but the ball spun out and the game belonged to Pendleton County.

The Wildcats improve to 14-16 with the win while the Thorobreds fall to 15-14.

Both teams advance to the 10th Region Tournament in Mason County's Field House beginning Wednesday. Pendleton County will take on Augusta (17-10) at 7:30 p.m. On Thursday at 6 p.m., the Thorobreds will play the host Mason County Royals (27-2) in the opening game that evening.

The two teams faced off only three weeks ago with the Royals winning a hard-fought 59-49 game on the Hilltop.

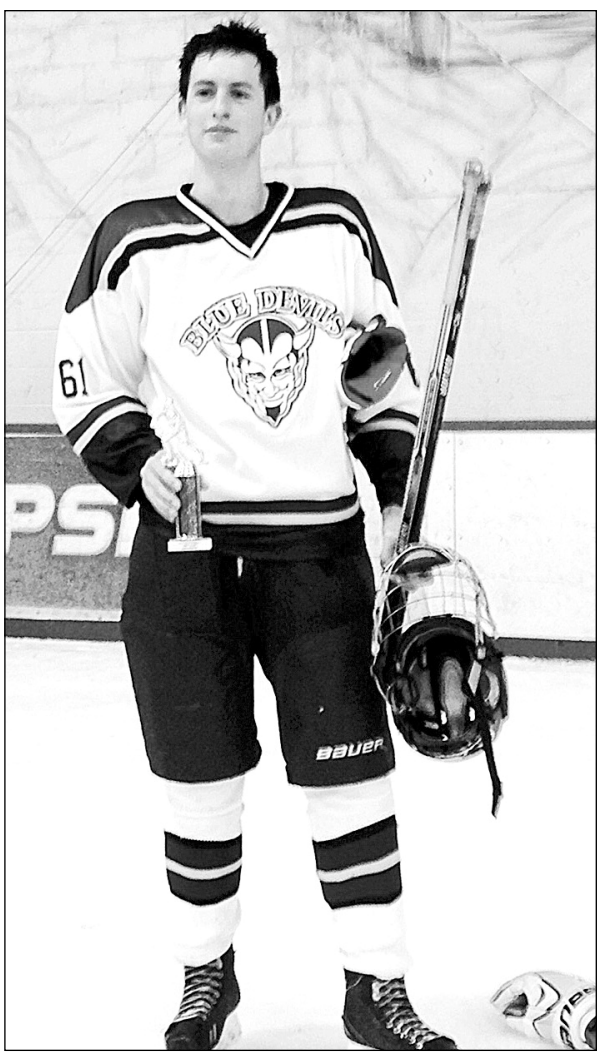
The Thorobreds put three players in double figures with Thompson leading the way with 21 points.

D.J. Jenkins had 18 points and Pulliam added 11.

Thompson was the game's leading rebounder with seven. The two teams each had 22 rebounds and 10 turnovers indicating how close the game was played throughout.

Other than Antrobus, the Wildcats had three others in double figures. Lea scored 12 points, eighth grader Dontaie Allen scored 11 and junior Tanner Daughtery put in 10 points.

The all tournament team consisted of Nicholas County's Dillon Webb, Dawson Cooper of Robertson County, Hunter Wood, Antrobus and Allen of Pendleton County along with Thompson and D.J. Jenkins of Harrison County. Allen was the tournament's Most Valuable Player.



ICE HOCKEY STATE CHAMPIONS. Travis Fry, a junior at Harrison County High School, is shown with the KHSAA state championship trophy in ice hockey. Fry who plays for Henry Clay and his teammates defeated Oldham County 7-2 Sunday to win the championship. On Saturday, the Blue Devils defeated perennial state power Trinity in an overtime shootout in the semi-finals. Fry is the son of Seth and Tracey Fry.

a little bit," explained Furnish. "We called a timeout and calmed the girls down and gave them clear instructions on how to attack the zone. We came back out and took control of the game."

After two Saner free throws gave the Lady Devils the four point lead, they turned the ball over on the next possession.

From there the Fillies took charge with a three-point play by Reffett, a basket by Philpott and huge free throws from eighth grade point guard Madison Kellione (Maddie K.).

The fiery youngster took the ball down the lane aggressively drawing contact and grabbed a key rebound on the defensive end to earn the free throws.

Kellione made five of six down the stretch to increase the Fillies' lead to the final six point margin.

"Age does not define a winner," beamed Furnish. "I have been telling Maddie K. all year that I feel confident when the ball is in her hands and I want the ball in her hands going down the stretch. She proved why tonight going five straight from the line to clinch the win. This kid is a winner."

Furnish added, "All three seniors (Kelsey Roberts, Chelsea Ingram and Whitney Gray) played huge roles in the win. I am proud of their vocal leadership and determination to give us this victory. It is so sweet."

Saner was the only Robertson County player in double figures scoring 18 points in the second half for a game high 23. Mitchell and freshman Kari Linville each had seven points and Linville led the game in rebounding with nine.

Philpott led the Fillies with 18 points followed by Reffett with 16 and Kellione with 12. Gray and Reffett pulled down seven rebounds and Philpott grabbed six.

Along with Harrison County's defensive effort, free throw accuracy was the difference in the ball game. The Fillies hit 15 of 20 tries from the charity stripe while Robertson County was only four of nine.

Both teams will advance to the 10th Region Tournament which will begin Monday in Winchester. The Fillies will play 19-9 Scott High in the 7:45 p.m. game Tuesday night. The Lady Eagles lost to Campbell County, 65-44, in the championship game of the 37th District Tournament Thursday at Campbell County. Robertson County will face the Lady Camels (21-10) at 7:45 p.m. Monday night.

The all-tournament team players were Megan Bretz of Nicholas County, Makayla Bishop of Pendleton County, Lacey Mitchell and Kaela Saner of Robertson County along with Madison Kellione, Taylor Reffett and Madison Philpott of Harrison County. Philpott was named the Most Valuable Player for the 38th District Tournament.

Feb. 23 -- At 3:38 p.m., a non-injury accident on Ky. 353 happened about 3:38 p.m. Jerry Black of Pleasant Street was behind Charles Biancke of East Pike Street when Black eased out of the intersection. Thinking he was turning, Biancke rear-ended the other vehicle.

Feb. 23 -- At 12:09 p.m., Harrison County deputies responded to a non-injury accident on U.S. 27 North about six miles from the city limits. Joseph Wasinger of Oxford, Ohio was driving a boxed-in bumper trailer. Alto Damron of Camp Douglas, Wisconsin was pulling a goose neck trailer with a truck on top. They were traveling south toward Cynthiana when Wasinger slowed down to turn left onto Carr Road. Damron crashed into the back. The trailer then became unhitched.

Feb. 23 -- At 2:57 p.m., an injury accident occurred about a mile south of Cynthiana on U.S. 27 South. Jose Bardales of Press Drive was slowing down for cars stopped ahead of him. Bradley Ewalt of Gray's Run Pike said his foot slipped off the brake when he rear-ended Bardales.

Feb. 26 -- At 5:02 p.m., Alitia Hill of Rodger's Park and David Collns of Florence Lane were traveling in opposite directions when their mirrors collided and knocked off.
